

Controversial Issues is a full interactive discussion of group chosen topics, with the intention to listen to our fellow participants react to the topic and offer our own ideas. Through respect of others' ideas and information along with active participation, perhaps we can suggest possible solutions or "baby step" actions to take to improve the issue. Staying on topic is the group's challenge, since one topic leads into other controversies. Considering all the information given by others will give everyone more to think about – until the next class.
